

Custom

The Power to Create—The Tools to Learn

Where to begin?

Your McGraw-Hill iLearning Sales Specialist will start you on the right path by visiting you and discussing your custom textbook needs. Then, you'll work with an experienced custom publishing representative to help with every detail and development. We will help you organize materials, select relevant content and guide you through the process. While you focus on what you do best—teaching—we'll put together the textbook, create a table of contents and assign an ISBN so bookstore managers can order it like any other textbook. The entire process, from concept to bookstore, can usually be accomplished in less than eight weeks. This is where your vision becomes realized—at McGraw-Hill Custom Publishing.

Outstanding options.

At McGraw-Hill, we've been offering the best service, content and options for decades. When you work with us, you get flexibility and simplicity—and the exact textbook you want.

Here's how it works.

Write your own. You can write your own materials and we'll professionally publish them. Whether it's a textbook, study guide, lab manual or other work, we can help prepare it for you.

Adapt one of ours. You can choose to shape your book using our resources. (McGraw-Hill texts and other source materials). You can combine or delete chapters from our texts, change the order of chapters, bind a study guide or lab manual with your text and much more.

Mix and match. In addition to your original work and selections from McGraw-Hill texts, you can use other resources, including your syllabus, lecture notes, PowerPoint slides or special reading assignments.

Get assistance. At McGraw-Hill, we can manage every step of the process for you, assisting with details and development to ensure you receive the product you want.

Use colour. Many best-selling McGraw-Hill textbooks can be customized by chapter in full colour. Contact your iLearning Sales Specialist for more details.

It's a wrap.

From your initial concept to your printed customized textbook, the entire process can be accomplished in less than eight weeks.

Final phases. Your book will be assigned an ISBN (book number) like all other published works. Then it will be compiled and a table of contents created. Next, it will be professionally printed, personalized for your course, and bound.

At the bookstore. Students will purchase your custom-designed textbook at the campus bookstore, like any other text. The bookstore orders your text using the ISBN and it is shipped from our distribution facility.

Meet student needs. They'll appreciate learning from a customized text that includes only what they need to study—without extraneous material you don't cover.

Questions

Betty Tustin (Senior Reprint and Custom Coordinator)
905.430.5131 or bettyt@mcgrawhill.ca

Jeff Snook (National Channel Manager and Custom Publisher)
905.430.5034 or jeffs@mcgrawhill.ca